

Cooper's Adze – Used to hollow out wooden bowls – Follows a design used by Native Americans back as early as 1600 – originally the head was made of flint

